Published December 10, 2021

The PDX Coin is at the heart of global payments and digital banking platform that aims to allow millions of retail users, institutions, merchants, vendors, and ecosystem partners to participate easily in the crypto economy with instant conversions between digital and fiat currencies. Through the upcoming virtual banking services and payment apps, all major crypto assets supported by the platform will become instantly liquid, and available across tens of millions of locations and online sites around the world. By 2024, PDX plans to introduce a regulated platform to trade digital shares of most publicly held companies.

What are its primary goals?

Although PDX's primary objective is to capitalize on its crypto payment and virtual banking capabilities in the metaverse, we are building our technology and product base in anticipation of a properly functioning and heavily populated metaverse sometime in the future. The company aims to provide all of its banking and lending functions in the metaverse, in addition to being a leader in retail and commercial payments. Consequently, this applies to as many types of compliant DeFi products and services as possible across as many legal jurisdictions as possible.

In the near future, PDX intends to invest in and form long-term partnerships, joint ventures and alliances with content developers in the fields of sports, gambling, gaming, and other entertainment. A goal of this project is to be involved in the creation of popular metaverse destinations that are only serviced by our payments and financial platforms. Content creation will also be a significant component of the Siberia blockchain protocol.

The 2nd token sale session for PDX Coin has already started on the P2PB2B exchange. You may purchase its coins until December 16th. From the middle of December, PDX Coin will be available for trading on the P2PB2B exchange. Those interested in this project can join the community right now and prepare for its upcoming listing.
